The container house china is a temporary portable building installed on a construction site that provides additional office space temporarily and quickly in the event of insufficient capacity. The container house manufacturer, container house supplier, container house suppliers are an environmentally-friendly and economical house with light steel as the skeleton, the sandwich panel as the enclosing material, space combination with standard modular series, bolted connection and new concept. Our detached house for sale has varied options, whether you need a single classroom or multi-floor school building. With the development of enrollment, the portable school building can be easily moved and adjusted to the layout. Nowadays, more and more people around the world like container construction. At the earliest, there were houses reconstructed from sea containers, which were both durable and durable, and realized the secondary use of used containers. However, there is now a new type of custom container house, which is based on the size of the ISO standard shipping container, can be assembled into a house like a building block. And such a house can be decorated like a permanent building, very beautiful.
